Marina One in Singapore is to date the largest project by ingenhoven architects. The project will be officially opened on 15th January 2018 by the Prime Minister of Singapore, Lee Hsien Loong and the Prime Minister of Malaysia, Dato' Sri Mohd Najib bin Tun Haji Abdul Razak. Representatives from the Project design and planning firms will be in attendance.

As an international role model for living and working, Marina One makes an innovative contribution to the discourse on megacities, especially in tropical regions, which, in the context of increasing population and climate change, face enormous challenges. The high-density building complex with its mix of uses extends to over 400,000 square meters and, with its group of four high-rise buildings, defines the Green Heart—a public space extending over several stories. This three-dimensional green oasis reflects the diversity of tropical flora.
